1. SQL server Analysis services

SQL Server Analysis Services is a tool primarily used by organizations to analyze and make sense of information otherwise spread out, whether over multiple databases or in different tables or files.

2.Excel service

Excel Services supports workbooks that are connected to external data sources. You can embed connection strings to external data sources in the workbook or save them centrally in a data connection library file. You can also make selected cells in worksheets editable by making them named ranges (parameters).

3.Excel workbook

workbook is a spreadsheet program file that you create in Excel. A workbook contains one or more worksheets.

4.share point list

SharePoint lists are one of the most useful features in SharePoint and the wider Microsoft 365 digital workplace. They are a highly flexible and convenient way to store and display data and content, with a variety of different options relating to formatting, access and workflows; they're also super-easy to use.

5.SQL server table collection of related data organised in rows and columns, serving as a blueprint for information storage and retrieval. SQL Table Structure:

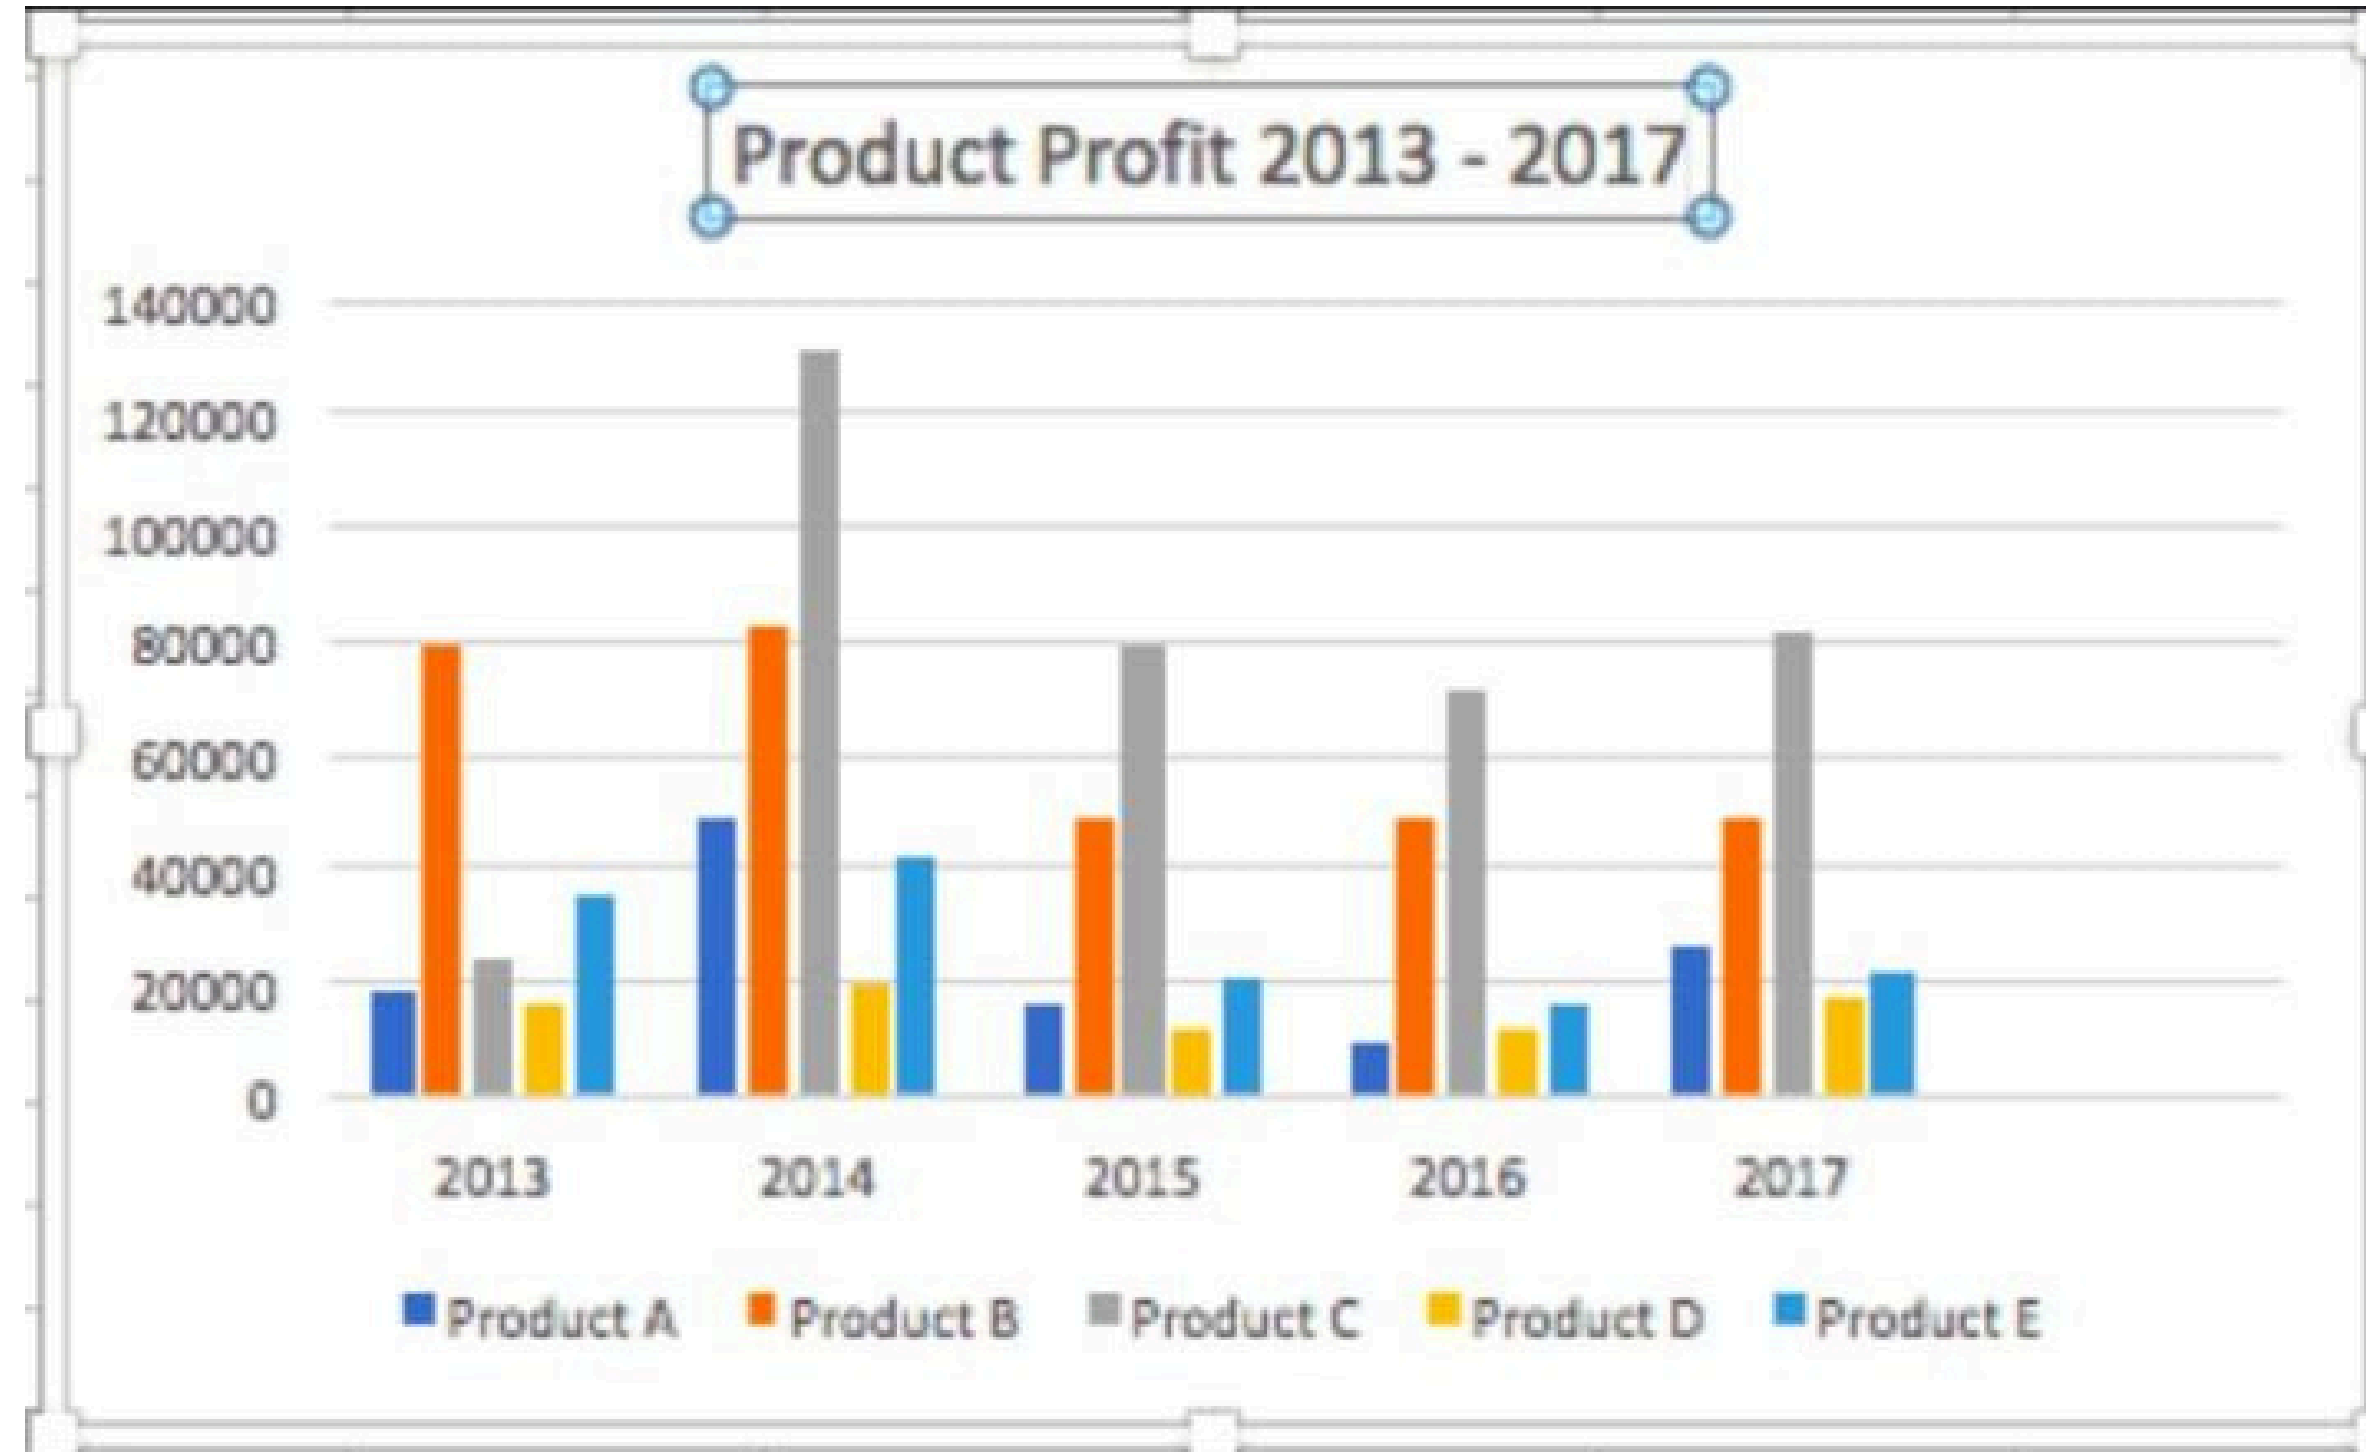

Components include columns, data types, constraints, primary and foreign keys, indexes, and performance optimisation.

6. Project overview:

An employee scorecard is a management tool used to monitor an employee's performance. It's the perfect organizational tool because it allows individuals to plan, prioritize, and implement required projects.

7. Result:

conclusion:

An employee scorecard is a digital record that managers use to monitor and review an employee's performance. The scorecard will usually outline the employee's role in the company, key responsibilities, daily tasks, required skills and qualities.
